

Markham Hotel Deals

Markham Hotel Deals - A hotel amenity is described as something of a premium nature offered together with the accommodations and the basics when renting a hotel room or motel or other accommodation. The amenities offered at every location differ. In certain kinds of lodging, like for instance particular chains of hotels, the amenities can be standard with all types of rooms, while at other places, they can be provided as optional objects for an additional price.

Inside the Hotel Room

Kitchen Facilities

Offering kitchen facilities in a kitchenette unit is a common amenity that several accommodations may provide. This will allow for the customers to store and cook their own foods. A kitchenette unit can comprise a full or half size refrigerator, a stove, some cabinets, an oven and usually a microwave. This is a common amenity that is a part of extended stay hotels. Coffeemakers are basically a basic feature in the majority of hotel rooms.

Other kinds of hotel rooms may not provide a kitchenette but only a microwave and a half-sized or bar-sized fridge. This kind of hotel room is normally marketed as a "micro-fridge" when both items are included.

There are standard rooms which only the basics and no kitchen facilities and normally these objects are placed in the hotel lobby or a common area for all guests to utilize instead.

Television

One basic thing which could be found within nearly all hotel rooms is a television. Currently, standard television channels are free to watch, though before, coin-operated pay television systems existed. Several hotels offer satellite television and cable free of charge.

Access to the World Wide Web

Internet access is offered in some type at the majority of lodging places. Wi-Fi is the most common and is utilized by those patrons who bring their own computers or smart phones. Several hotels charge a fee but in many locations this is complimentary. Other places offer hard-wired Internet service requiring the use of a cable for the hook-up connection. Several hotel facilities provide computers within the lobby for patrons to utilize as well. It is really uncommon but there are several establishments who have computers offered in every hotel room.

Personal Things

Most hotels would offer their customers with a variety of free items. Within the bathroom, there are normally some toiletry things. Common objects include mouthwash, sewing kits, soap, shower caps, shampoo and conditioner, and sometimes body lotion. There is normally a hair dryer and sometimes irons and ironing boards situated in the closet. If you are missing something or forgot anything, many times you could ring the front desk and they will be glad to provide it for you.

Towels

Most hotels offer guest towels to their patrons. One problem with providing towels is towel theft, which has proved expensive to hotels in the past. The Holiday Inn provided amnesty to those who returned stolen towels in 2003, however, numerous hotels actually do not do a lot to resolve the problem. It is a common practice for the hotel to charge the credit card which held the reservation for any missing items like towels or bath robes.

Outside the Hotel Room

Swimming Pools

In many hotels, there are swimming pools, hot tubs and occasionally even waterslides. In seasonally temperate weather conditions these can be outdoor pools, and other places feature indoor facilities all year round.

Dining

There are a lot of different kinds of dining provided in lodging facilities. Like for instance, several hotels offer a free continental breakfast for their patrons. This is occasionally set up within the lobby or common area within hotel. Common foods offered in the morning consist of tea, coffee, fruit juices, cereal, eggs, sausage, waffles, fruits, bagels and toast.

Some hotels will have a restaurant on-site, where meals must be paid for separately. Some hotels offer room service from the restaurant as an option for patrons.

During the customers visit at an all-inclusive resort, customers will be offered food at no charge or little cost at all times of the day. Usually for supper, these places could have some a la carte restaurants that require a reservation. They normally have some pub-fare consisting of burgers, pizzas, hotdogs and fries available every time and normally a morning or lunch buffet.

Exercise

Some hotels are now offering fitness centers so that the customers will be able to exercise throughout their stay. Other locations offer recreational activities like tennis, golf and even scuba diving or other popular sports.